Finotex announces the launch of its new website

June 30, 2008 — Miami, Florida — Finotex USA Corporation announced today the launching of its new website. This new website design features enhanced usability and dynamic graphics. It is comprised of six main sections which communicate facts about the company, its products, news and events as well as its contact information and a Client Log-in section. Spotlights of this website are the company's new green line of products, an extended product offering and innovations. Useful product galleries and downloadable flyers are available.

For more information all Finotex's product offerings, please visit the company's website at:
